

Christmas vs Chinese New Year

By Darren

Introduction

- Chinese new year and Christmas have many differences and similarities. But they are both big holidays. Many people celebrate both of them. And both holidays are a lot of fun.

Similarities

- Both holidays people make holiday food.
- Both holidays are in winter.
- They both have red is the holiday color.
- Families gather together.
- People exchange gifts.

Christmas uniqueness

- It has green in its holiday color.
- It is a christens holiday.
- It has Christmas tree.
- China does not have day off for Christmas.

Chinese new year uniqueness

- China has red envelopes as the gifts.
- Chinese new year has day off in China, not in the U.S.
- Chinese new year is the start of a new year based on lunar calendar.
- Some Chinese people eat dumpling to celebrate.
- Chinese new year has lanterns

conclusion

As a half Chinese and half American. I celebrate both holidays.

How about you? Mine is Chinese new year.